

I am running for City Council to support our local businesses in these difficult times, keep our neighborhoods safe, improve our parks, and protect our small beach town character. I love Hermosa Beach and would be honored to serve my fellow citizens.

As a South Bay native and small business owner, I understand that this past year has been a challenging and turbulent time for the local businesses that make our hometown such a special place. I will promote policies that enable local businesses to flourish.

In my professional life, I plan and manage a budget that funds millions of dollars every week to further the development of renewable energy projects around the country. I know that this experience will enable me to manage our city's budget and improve its fiscal health.

Throughout the course of this pandemic, I have been inspired by how resilient and buoyant my fellow Hermosa Beach citizens have been. Our City Council deserves a new member that reflects this positive energy and can-do spirit, and I believe I am that candidate.

I humbly ask for your vote.
